

Examining the effectiveness of pastoral (religious leader) intervention on changing unhealthy habits among church members. Grant application in progress to the National Institute of Health (U.S.). Also, discussions are underway to use the model with athletes at Middle Tennessee State University in terms of changes in attitude and behaviours about drug-taking of all types, but particularly performance-enhancing.